

Problem Statement

Statement:

While there are many student planners, there isn't one platform that is simple enough to keep track of grades and assignments in a way that does not feel cluttered or overwhelming. There should be a simple app/platform that tracks gpa and grades in an digestible form.

Who is affected by this problem?

Students who have a harder time keeping track of their assignments. Students who don't have an idea what their grade looks like. Students who don't understand how their weighted assignments affect their overall grade currently. Students who get easily overstimulated with too many platforms or options of formats. Students who prefer visually seeing how their grades look.

What is the problem?

There isn't a platform simple enough to easily keep track of grades and assignments.

Where does the problem present itself?

The problem presents itself when students are unable to visually see their assignments in one platform. When students fall behind because their form of keeping track of their assignments fails.
